Preface

The White House grounds and gardens are a living monument. The landscape character has evolved through many administrations, covering a span of more than 200 years. These grounds and gardens change with the seasons and are continually improved by human hands.

It is, therefore, important to document for future generations one of the most famous gardens in the world. This booklet records for posterity the image of the White House grounds during the second term of the Clinton administration, 1996 to 2000. It supplements previous volumes published for 1976–1980, 1980–1984, 1984–1988, 1988–1992, and 1992–1996.

1997 On March 25th, two American elms from the original grafts of the John Q. Adams elm were planted to replace trees removed in 1994. The tree in section one was fourteen feet tall with a five-inch caliper. The second tree was sixteen feet tall with a six-inch caliper. Section 1/Tree 4, Section 4/Tree 14

A large limb on the west side of this massive, old elm was removed in mid-April. Decay of the heartwood and safety concerns led to the removal. Section 1/Tree 3

The utility steam line repairs were begun in August along the press area and VIP entrance. Plant materials were removed for construction and will be replaced at the end of the repairs. Ilex crenata 'Green Lustre' holly was replanted at the VIP entrance in October. Section 2 / Shrub 12

The Park Service tree crews removed a white ash planted before 1900 on October 8th. The tree had lost several limbs in recent storms, and was a safety hazard. Section 4 / Tree 8

Four Wye River Queen hollies were planted in November along the steps of the VIP entrance. These hollies are a hybrid of Nellie R. Stevens and an unknown male holly. The cultivar arose at Wye Nursery in Maryland. Section 1/ Shrub 7

The fence along the west tradesman's entrance was replaced in November, and the English ivy ground cover was replanted. Section 2 / Shrub 15

Sixteen new Fruitland elaeagnus were planted in December behind the southwest guard booth in section one. These plants replaced an older, declining planting. Additional euonymous ground cover was added to complete the renovation. Section 1/ Shrub 5

1998 Construction was begun on a new press-staging site in March. On the 28th, two elms were removed. These elms were early hybrids, and had limited disease resistance and a less desirable branching form. Section 1/Trees 7, 8

Dutch elm disease claimed two trees in July. These elms were early hybrid with less resistance. Section 1 / Trees 5, 6

The pressroom beds were replanted in August. The pyracanthas were replaced along the wall. The beds were planted with an evergreen barberry. Section 2 / Shrubs 14, 17

A graft of the John Q. Adams elm was planted in August to replace a tree removed in July. A Washington elm, a National Park Service selection, was planted in September to restore an elm removed in the press panel renovation project. Section 1 / Trees 6, 8

An eighteen-foot Jefferson elm from Dangerfield nursery was planted on November 18th. This National Park Service selected elm replaced a diseased tree removed in July. Section 1 / Tree 5

1999 A hybrid elm was removed in October due to Dutch elm disease. This tree was an early hybrid with limited resistance. Section 4 / Tree 6

1996 In October, the horseshoe pits were removed from the pool area. A Winter King hawthorn was planted by the walkway to add winter color. Section 8 / Tree 43

The cornelian cherry dogwood on the east Jefferson knoll was removed in December after a long decline. A new cornelian dogwood, a multi-stem specimen, was planted in the same location. Section 9 / Tree 10

1997 A willow oak was removed in February pending construction of a spa in the pool area. Section 8 / Tree 36

On March 13th, a large black haw viburnum was relocated from the pool plantings. It was replaced with a Nellie R. Stevens holly from Oxon Hill nursery. The viburnum was relocated in the southeast perimeter plantings. Section 8 / Shrub 13, Section 11 / Shrub 60

A planting of Kingsville and other boxwood cultivars were added to the walk leading to the east front. The purpose of this planting was to improve the aesthetic appearance of the area. Evaluations of the growing habits of these plants will be used for future selections in other garden areas. Section 10 / Shrub 20

Renovations of the pool area were undertaken in April and May to replace overgrown plantings. The installation of a new spa, followed by shrub and ground cover plantings completed the landscape improvements. Section 8 / Tree 41, 42

A summer storm in July snapped the top of a yellow buckeye planted prior to 1900. The main trunk of this beautiful native tree was removed in late August. Section 9 / Tree 2

The small-leafed linden planted by President Clinton in 1993 was removed in September. The tree suffered from a root disease known as armillaria root rot, for which there is no effective treatment. A new linden was planted nearby on October 8th. Section 8 / Tree 11

Repair work on the visitor building entrance necessitated removing the plant material. Construction continued through November and December. The beds were replanted using crimson azaleas, English ivy, and Japanese holly. Section 10 / Shrubs 2, 7, 8

1998 The Persian parrotia tree in the east triangle was removed on November 10th. This tree had lost a large section of limbs in the fall of 1997. Ten year-old, eight-foot parrotia was planted in September 1997 under the canopy of the limbless area. Speculation surrounding the age and origins of this tree is mysterious. The tree was thought to be older than 1900, and possibly a gift to the Roosevelt family from Frederic Law Olmstead. The parrotia tree arrived in America through the Arnold Arboretum in the late nineteenth century. Olmstead used the parrotia in several estate plantings during the 1890s. A sister tree of the same age survives on the west Jefferson knoll. Section 10 / Tree 22, 22A

1999 Japanese hollies outside the Oval Office were replaced in April. Green Beauty boxwoods were selected to reflect the same boxwood style in the adjacent plantings. Section 8 / Shrub 2

The Weiri silver maple planted before 1900 was removed in mid-July. The tree had been in decline for several years. The heartwood was hollow, preventing an accurate growth ring count to determine exact age. Section 9 / Tree 18

The commemorative white pine planted by President Gerald Ford was removed on October 27th. The tree died of a root rot complex, initiated by excessive moisture and poor drainage. This tree had been replaced in the past. Section 10 / Tree 7

2000 A very large common boxwood was added to the east portico planting in February. This shrub was eight feet in height and width. Section 5 / Shrub 4

The boxwoods on the east end of the Rose Garden were replaced in March. The original plants were from the 1962 planting. New English boxwoods were located in Virginia for the improvements. Section 7 / Shrub 7

Boxwood edging adjacent to the lawn in the Rose Garden was replaced in May. The English boxwood had suffered numerous disease problems for years. Justin Brouwer boxwood, a dwarf, hardy cultivar, was selected for a replacement. Section 7 / Shrub 11

Justin Brouwer boxwoods were used to edge the planting area surrounding the time capsule in the Rose Garden. Section 7 / Shrub 10

The west boxwood hedges in the Rose Garden were replaced with new English boxwood in late August. These plants renewed the overgrown, declining shrubs planted in 1962. Section 7 / Shrub 7

The specimen boxwood by the south portico was replaced in August. A large English boxwood from Virginia was planted as a replacement. Section 7 / Shrub 4

A renovation of the southeastern triangle was begun in October and continued into November. New Roseum Elegans rhododendrons were planted, and four Nellie R. Stevens hollies were added for screening and winter interest. Three cultivars of a new re-blooming azalea were planted in drifts to provide spring and fall color. These Encore azaleas were developed in Alabama. Autumn Ruby, Autumn Monarch, and Autumn Coral were the selections added to the design. Section 10 / Shrubs 15, 16, 21, 22, 23, 24

A Usuzumi flowering cherry tree was planted near the Jacqueline Kennedy garden on November 11th. The Japanese name means cherry tree with gray blossoms. The tree was propagated from a fourteen hundred year old tree in Neo Village, Japan. The parent tree is reported to be the oldest living flowering cherry tree in the world. Section 10 / Tree 31

Two Chinese dogwoods were planted near the Usuzume cherry in November. These trees replaced native dogwoods removed earlier in the year. Section 10 / Trees 1, 30

1997 A trio of Blue Girl hollies planted in 1996 was removed in August. Irrigation sprinklers created an environment too wet for these shrubs to thrive. Section 12 / Shrub 106

The liriope edging in the Children's Garden was replaced in September. Non-stoloniferous Big Blue liriope was selected for showy flowers. Section 12 / Shrubs 20, 36

1998 A buckeye in the southwest perimeter planting was removed in March. This tree suffered leaf scorch and competition with surrounding trees. Section 12 / Tree 28

Hetzi hollies planted near the service roadway were removed due to senescence. Section 12 / Shrub 25

2000 Large Camellia japonicas were planted in the Children's Garden in late February. Brilliant and Victory White are the red and white cultivars. Section 12/ Shrub 25

A large-scale renovation of the Children's Garden was begun in June. The goal is to replace overgrown trees and shrubs, and re-invigorate existing plantings. No major planting project has been implemented since the original 1968 planting. New holly plantings are the first part of the installation. Section 12 / Shrubs 3-14, 25

Replacement of Gatehouses

Preliminary design for the replacement of gatehouse structures began in 1995 with alternative designs being presented to the Commission of Fine Arts. The Commission preferred a simple design with no columns or large structural elements in the corners of the buildings. The structure should have a simple gabled roof of metal or slate with an overhang. The Commission suggested materials should be of lighter brown or tan hue for the walls and should include a veneer of stone. Bronze work should not adorn the doors or frame out the windows. The Commission approved the final design and the project proceeded into the development of construction documents by the National Park Service's Denver Service Center.

This project was funded by the U. S. Secret Service under a reimbursable agreement with the National Park Service. A construction contract was awarded by the National Park Service in August 1997 for the replacement of the main gatehouse on the north grounds of the White House and the gatehouse at the north end of West Executive Avenue. Contract administration and construction supervision was done by the National Park Service. The project was completed on October 14, 1998.

Replacement of the White House Roof

The White House has used a number of different roofing systems since its initial construction. The roofing system was originally designed for lead but changed to slate as the roof went on in 1798. By 1801 leaks had become a problem and architect Benjamin Henry Latrobe replaced the roofing with sheet iron in 1804. In 1818 the White House roof was copper. Leaks still remained a problem, however, and by the 1850's repairs and patches were still being made. In the 1880's, attempts were made to repair the old copper system with painted steel plates. The copper system was finally scrapped and sold in 1888. It is unclear as to what replaced it, but in 1906 a new tin roof was installed. In 1927 the weakened structural system for the roof was extensively overhauled, the attic was converted into an enlarged third floor, and a new slate roof was installed by N. P. Severin Company of Chicago, Illinois.

The roofing system in place during this administration was slate which probably dated from the 1927 installation with extensive repairs being made during the Truman Renovation in the 1950's. After extensive studies and analysis, it was decided to replace the existing slate and bituminous built-up roof with a new lead coated copper roof. A construction contract for this work was awarded by the National Park Service in June 1997. Construction began the first week of July and was completed in December 1997. The National Park Service was responsible for the design, contract administration and construction supervision of the project.

Restoration of the North Grounds Fountain

Restoration work on the fountain located on the north grounds of the White House was completed in October 2000. This work included the replacement of the existing concrete coping stone around the fountain basin with new granite. Previous work had been done in 1998 to repair the fountain basin. The replacement of the coping completed the rehabilitation work.
